Months of expert work becomes days.

I'm an operator, not a developer. I take the expert work that lives in one person's head and train AI to do it. Here's the whole idea, mostly in pictures.

01 / The idea

I train AI on the judgment, not just the task.

AI doesn't fail because the model is weak. It fails because no one taught it the judgment the work needs. Tech teams build tools. I build judgment.

The expert is multiplied, not replaced. Work that used to take months takes days.

02 / Where it plays

Five places expert work compresses.

Most engagements are one of these five.

01 Process compression
Map a process end to end, then train AI on the steps that carry real judgment.

02 Reporting and insight
The data exists, the report doesn't. AI builds it and flags what's off.

03 The company brain
Feed it everything. It answers any question with full context.

04 Knowledge consolidation
Scattered tribal knowledge becomes structured, searchable, validated.

05 Customer-facing intelligence
Inbound, routing, recommendations, demand sensing. (Hardest, data-gated.)

03 / Proof

Proven on real data, not a slide.

I've done this work by hand at company after company for 20 years, and built parts of the AI version at another. The Culture Engine is the whole system, end to end. I ran it on a 450-person company: a year of data, 40 leadership interviews, 290 survey responses. The receipts:

5 of 7
leadership departures flagged before they happened

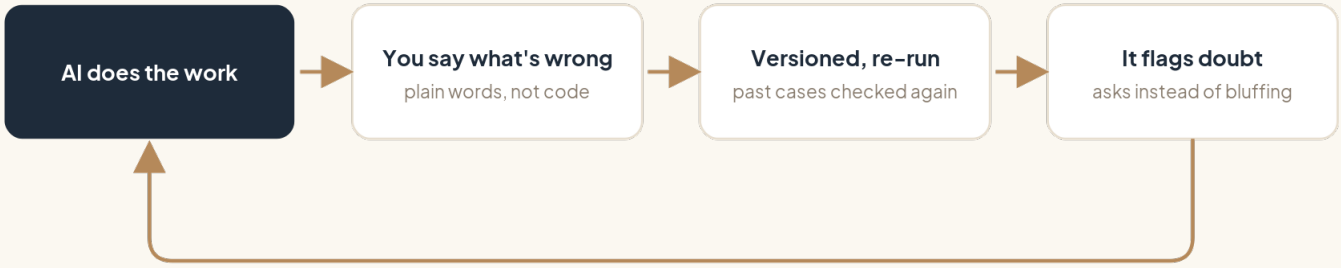

-87%
supervisor sentiment crisis caught, invisible to all 40 interviewed leaders

161
working practices documented from their own top performers

04 / How it's built

AI gets things wrong. The loop is the fix.

Anyone selling you AI that never makes mistakes is lying. The fix is a correction loop you run like coaching a sharp new hire, week after week.

Every cycle makes it sharper.

The decisions stay yours. The grind doesn't.

05 / The operator

20 years running teams, the last ten in Vietnam.

Pizza 4P's CULTURE & OPS EXCELLENCE DIRECTOR	37 locations, 4 countries, 3,700 people. 260+ SOPs into one backbone. eNPS up 18 points.
Seller Candy INTERIM COO	Built the operational foundation through 7-to-70 headcount and 6x revenue.
Dreamplex DIRECTOR OF CENTRAL OPERATIONS	Full operations stack and BPM automation. Roughly 4,056 hours a year taken out of the work.
Dreamscope THE CULTURE ENGINE	Trained AI to do expert work that used to take months. Now it takes days.

The next step is 15 minutes.
